Required Texts; iClicker:

Below are the required texts for the class:

- Farnsworth et al., Contracts: Cases and Materials (Foundation Press, 8th ed. 2013) (abbreviated “CB” below);
- Supplemental Reading (available for purchase at the bookstore). As noted below, you may well encounter difficulty if you postpone acquiring this.

As noted below, iClickers are also required.

Note: Other editions of required texts will not be suitable. It is possible some portion of the final exam in the class will allow a student to reference required texts. If so, a student will not be entitled to substitute a different edition. So, you should not acquire a different edition of a required text.

The supplemental reading will be made available in multiple, separately-bound parts. The first part of the supplemental reading, comprising approximately 194 pages, has been approved for printing at the bookstore. They should have it available long before the first class. Note, however, that they may print and bind it only after they have your order. So, you should go to the bookstore and try to purchase it a few days before you will need it.

iClickers:

Students are to obtain iClickers for this class. These are acquired from the bookstore. They need to be acquired before the first class. Students are to take their iClickers to each class meeting (starting the first class).

The sellers of the iClicker also license an app for smartphone use. That app is not suitable for this class. You will need to obtain the physical iClicker, which looks something like a television remote.

Material addressing registration of the iClicker will be posted on the course Blackboard-based web site (https://courses.missouri.edu) (under the folder named “iClickers”; to be made available on or about January 15).
Usage of iClickers will be part of the performance in the class that is graded (although, for the first week of class, use of the iClickers will not be graded).

Reading Assignments:

Week 1:
- [note: This class does not meet on Friday, 1/13]:
- Read the class syllabus.
  - I am aware that reading the syllabus and related administrative items may seem like something one can skip. Here’s the deal. There are some differences as to preparation for class, attendance, and the like, from procedures for the fall term. So, take care to read the syllabus in advance of the first class. In addition, we will be using iClickers, which require certain configuration that you will need to address. So, you need to read these documents.
  - The syllabus will be posted on the course web site on or about Monday, January 16. So, there is not a need to contact me if you attempt to download it earlier and it is not available.
- Familiarize yourself with the iClickers by reading the material to be posted on the course web site, under the folder named, iClickers, on or before Monday, 1/16.
- CB: 405–406.7
- Supp.: 1–50.9
  - Note: The syllabus has more textual exposition (as opposed to cases) than the casebook. That type material may be covered in class at a pace different from the pace at which we cover edited cases. That is why the reading assignments covering the supplement may include more pages than reading assignments from the casebook.

You should be prepared to cover in the first class the above assignment through the appearance of Supp. page 40.8 (i.e., read the syllabus, CB: 405–406.7 & Supp.: 1–40.8; and familiarize yourself with the iClickers), though it is unlikely we will get that far.

Tentative assignment for Week 2 (Week of 1/23):
- Supp. 50.9–57.8.
- CB: 417.8–420.10.
- Supp. 57.8–59. You should be prepared to discuss the problems on these pages.
- CB: 433.8–439.10.
- Supp. 60–89.5.
