Welcome back!

Our first Civil Procedure II class will be Wednesday, January 17, from 10:00 to 10:50 in Room 4. The assignment for our January 17 class is Chapter 15 of our text, concerning appeals (pages 1123 – 1144 of Dessem, Civil Procedure: Representing Clients in Civil Litigation).

Your reading this semester includes (1) material from the text that we used last semester and (2) Benjamin Spencer’s Federal Civil Rules Supplement: 2017-2018 (that we also used in last semester’s Civil Procedure I course). When the text refers to Rules from the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure or statutes from Title 28 (the title of the United States Code concerning federal judicial procedures and the federal courts), check these in the Federal Civil Rules Supplement.

While I expect students to attend each class this semester, if for any reason you cannot be present (or will not be prepared to participate) please complete and submit to me the motion for extension of time posted on the course TWEN site.

See you on the 17th in Room 4!
