

HEALTH LAW

Health law is a broad area of practice relating to public health and the provision of health care services. It includes numerous topics and subtopics, ranging from health care policy to federal and state regulation of food and medical products, regulation of health care providers, and the doctor-patient relationship. The Law School offers several foundational courses in this area.

Foundational Courses

Health Care Law: The Doctor-Patient Relationship
Regulation of Drugs and Medical Devices

Recommended Courses, Clinic

Elder Law
Environmental Law
Food Law and Policy
Products Liability
Regulation of Medical Marijuana Businesses
Sex, Reproduction, and the Law

Commercialization of Life Science Innovations (Business School)
Health Care in the United States (School of Health Professions)

Veterans Clinic

*Students considering this pathway may be interested in a dual degree program in which they receive a J.D. degree from the Law School and the Master of Health Administration (MHA) from the Department of Health Management and Informatics, normally within four academic years.

Contact List: Faculty Who Teach or Have Expertise in the Field

Beck, Davis, Drake, English, Geary, Halabi, Lambert, Lietzan

**Not all of the above courses may be offered every academic year. Please refer to the registrar's website to see how frequently courses of interest have been offered in recent years.